

I crackle, pop, and keep you warm,
on chilly nights or during a storm.
People gather all around,
look where glowing logs are found.

I'm not a house, but I have a door.
Campers sleep upon my floor.
Zip me open and take a peek,
if your next clue is what you seek.

I sit outside with seats to share,
for meals and games in open air.
Families gather all around,
I'm where benches can be found.

onelittleproject.com

I carry things from place to place,
with straps and pockets - so much space!
Packed with gear for trails and fun,
look where adventures have begun.

onelittleproject.com

I fold up small and open wide,
a comfy place to sit outside.
Around the fire, I like to stay,
look where campers rest and play.

onelittleproject.com

I'm soft and cozy, warm and snug,
just like a blanket or a hug.
Climb inside and zip up tight,
it's where campers sleep at night.

onelittleproject.com

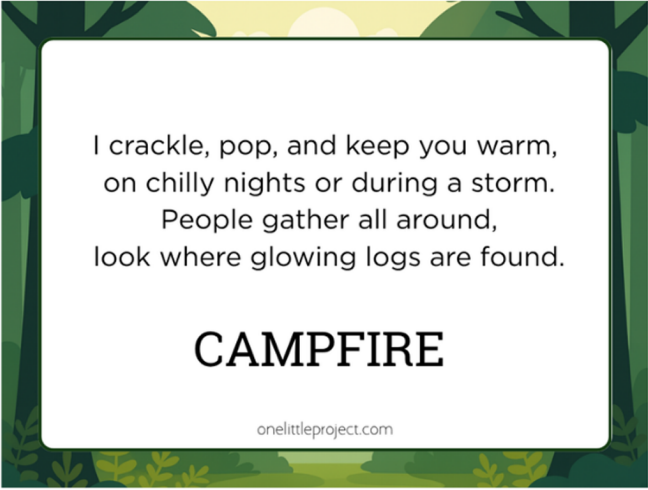

I keep things cold both day and night,
for drinks and snacks tucked out of sight.
Open me and take a peek,
if your next clue is what you seek.

When it gets dark and hard to see,
a bright beam shines in front of me.
I help light up the path at night,
you use me to help guide your sight.

A square card with a white background and a green forest border. The text is centered in the white area.

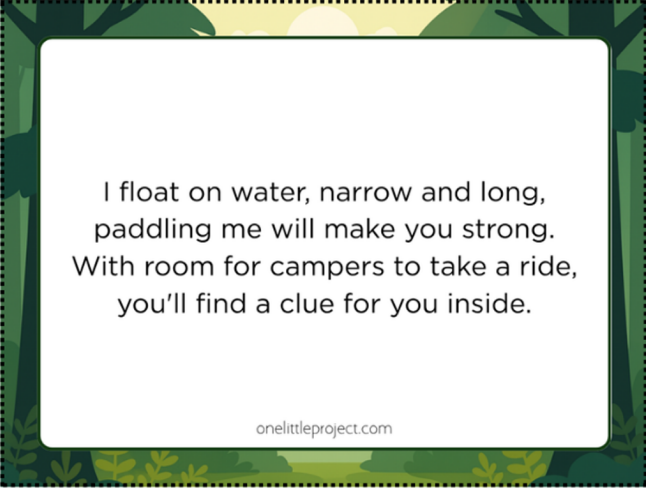

I help cook food when you're away
from your kitchen every day.
Pots and pans sit right on me,
look where campers make their tea.

Over rocks and trails I go,
through mud and dirt and even snow.
Lace us up and off you roam,
wear these when you're far from home.

I float on water, narrow and long,
paddling me will make you strong.
With room for campers to take a ride,
you'll find a clue for you inside.

I am long and bend a bit,
by the water I often sit.
Cast me out and wait to see,
what might bite and come to me.

Buzzing sounds may come your way,
but I help keep them far away.
Before the hike or nature stroll,
spray before bugs take their toll.

My two round eyes help you see,
far off lands not near to me.
Birds and trails come into view,
so look nearby to find your clue.

Back and forth I like to sway,
a comfy spot to make your day.
Not a bed, but just as neat,
a cozy place to rest your feet.
